

Appeal to the People by Assistant Provost Marshal General Dodge.

WARD MEETINGS RECOMMENDED.

SUSPENSION OF THE DRAFT.

The suspension in all the districts of this city was suspended yesterday in obedience to instructions from Acting Assistant Provost Marshal General Dodge, who has made the following appeal to the people:

AN APPEAL TO THE PEOPLE.
OFFICE OF THE ASSISTANT PROVOST MARSHAL GENERAL, NEW YORK, March 17, 1865.

Vol. 100, No. 10, New York, March 17, 1865.
The undersigned, Assistant Provost Marshal General, do hereby suspend the draft in all the districts of this city, and in obedience to instructions from Acting Assistant Provost Marshal General Dodge, who has made the following appeal to the people:

No postponement or suspension of the draft will be made by the Provost Marshal General, but he has placed in the power of the citizens themselves to decide, by simply complying with his call, whether they will or will not be drafted. If they do not, they will not be drafted. If they do, they will be drafted. There has heretofore been but little interest manifested by the citizens at large in recruiting. They have been too busy to do so.

I believe the quota of the whole city can be filled without further draft, and without calling upon those already drafted. If they do not, they will be drafted. If they do, they will be drafted. There has heretofore been but little interest manifested by the citizens at large in recruiting. They have been too busy to do so.

I respectfully request that the citizens of each ward immediately assemble, appoint recruiting committees, and call upon those already drafted. If they do not, they will be drafted. If they do, they will be drafted. There has heretofore been but little interest manifested by the citizens at large in recruiting. They have been too busy to do so.

Recruits brought to the recruiting office by a ward committee shall be exempted from the draft, and, if they are not, they will be drafted. If they do not, they will be drafted. If they do, they will be drafted. There has heretofore been but little interest manifested by the citizens at large in recruiting. They have been too busy to do so.

Ward committees will take their recruits for muster to the provost marshal of the districts to which they belong. This, by keeping the provost marshals fully employed, will have the effect of stopping the draft, by deterring it from being made.

If the wards already drafted will keep the district provost marshals occupied in enlisting recruits, to go to their homes, they will not be drafted. If they do not, they will be drafted. If they do, they will be drafted. There has heretofore been but little interest manifested by the citizens at large in recruiting. They have been too busy to do so.

The Provost Marshal General has placed the question of the draft in the hands of the people themselves. If they will give the district provost marshals full employment in recruiting, no draft will ensue, nor will the men already drafted be called upon to report; but, if they do not, they will be drafted. If they do, they will be drafted. There has heretofore been but little interest manifested by the citizens at large in recruiting. They have been too busy to do so.

I am, very respectfully, your obedient servant,
Major TWENTIETH S. DODGE, A. P. M. Gen.

THE FIFTH DISTRICT.
The wheel was stopped in this district yesterday, and will not probably be set in motion for some days to come. Provost Marshal Ward, in announcing the welcome news, took occasion to remark that he had just been in consultation with the Provost Marshal General, and that it was decided to suspend the draft for a few days in order to facilitate recruiting. The drawing of the seventh ward, upon which they were expected, would therefore be discontinued, and if citizens would only hurry up recruiting there would be no more revolutions of that wheel.

In the Fifth district without drafting; at all events he was determined to try the experiment for a few days, and see how far it would go. The Provost Marshal General, he stated that each recruit would be credited to the ward from whence he came, so that no injustice might be done to any part of the district that might succeed in raising the quota.

THE SEVENTH DISTRICT.
It was expected that the draft would be resumed in this district yesterday morning, but it did not take place. Captain Wagner, the Provost Marshal, being able to comply with the requisition of Provost Marshal Fry, by furnishing quite a number of recruits.

Meeting in the Tenth Ward, Fifth District.
A meeting of the citizens of the above ward was held on Friday evening at Essex Market Court House, General Taylor in the chair. A large number of persons from the ward and other parts of the district attended.

The committee appointed at the last meeting reported, that in consequence of the commencement of the draft they were unable to carry out their intentions, and requested to be discharged, which request was accordingly complied with.

Mr. H. Bogard, of the Thirteenth ward, suggested that a branch office of the County Volunteering Department be established in this ward, similar to that at the Battery, the request to be under the superintendence of Supervisor Pray.

Supervisor Pray stated his perfect concurrence in the suggestion of Mr. Bogard. The committee believed, and he believed, that to establish an office, which he believed would be the greatest service in filling the quota of the entire district, his suggested several improvements in the recruiting of volunteers—there is allowing a recruit to use his own discretion as regards the disposal of the amount of his bounty. The fact of the draft being suspended, should not be a hindrance to the raising of the quota, and should not be looked upon as a serious matter. Great encouragement has been given to those who have volunteered, and the committee believed that the quota of the entire district could be filled by volunteering. He concluded by proposing an early call for the draft, for the purpose of accepting new measures for the encouragement of volunteers for the army and navy. The residents of the ward and other parts of the district were in favor of the suggestion, and the committee were accordingly instructed to call for the draft.

Important Meeting to be Held.
The following call has been issued:

A meeting will be held at the "Seventh Assembly District Headquarters," No. 100, Broadway, on Tuesday evening, the 21st inst., at 8 o'clock, for the purpose of accepting new measures for the encouragement of volunteers for the army and navy. The residents of the ward and other parts of the district were in favor of the suggestion, and the committee were accordingly instructed to call for the draft.

ST. PATRICK.

THE FRIENDLY SONS OF ST. PATRICK.

Splendid Display at the Banquet at Delmonico's Palatial Hotel.

The eighty-first anniversary festival of the ancient and honorable Society of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick was celebrated on Friday night last, with the greatest harmony and enthusiasm, at Delmonico's famous rooms, at the corner of Fourteenth street and Fifth avenue.

Last year the annual celebration was held, as we have heard, at the same place, and under very flattering circumstances.

Whatever was there said or done is, however, lost to the world, since no reporter was present to jot down the records of the passing moments as they went by. This was entirely the fault of the management of those days, but not of the Friendly Sons themselves. They, however, well and properly reminded this neglect this year by their valued attention to the members of the press who were present, and who thus publicly have to thank them for their kind and unbounded hospitality.

The banquet hall was most elaborately decorated. From the centre of the roof hung in glittering suspension a beautiful lot of circular lights, shedding a glow of radiance around the tables below. These radiating lights were supported and sustained by a number of superb candelabras, revolving in their own secondary spheres, and adding beauty and brilliancy to the general effect. Mirrors every size, form and shape reflected the beauties of the scene, redoubling in appearance the size of the hall, and greatly exaggerating the already perplexing number of green and golden curtains which shut out the eyes of the outside world—the proscenium valises—from the simple and friendly mysteries of the genial zone who were harmoniously gathered together. Of the fare of the evening nothing can be said, except that it was of the best that the markets and season afford, and no extension of the human appetite could have done justice to its abundance and variety. The noble congregation of Irishmen and their foreign friends did their best to conquer the "wiles" that, so far as one could perceive, their efforts in this respect were quite fruitless. It must, however, be remarked that this observation does not apply to the "drink."

The good things of the evening—and, as we have already said, they were of the best—having been duly discussed and disposed of, the oratorical part of the evening's entertainment began with the speech of the President, who spoke very briefly. We give a sketch of his remarks, which were of a most appropriate and patriotic character. He spoke of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, and of the importance of their mission in the world. He spoke of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, and of the importance of their mission in the world. He spoke of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick, and of the importance of their mission in the world.
